'I will continue begging Ghanaians because they decide who to lead them'

NPP leader, Nana Akufo-Addo said his critics including the President who have criticized him for begging for votes from Ghanaians lack a better understanding of what a democracy is.

With a clear understanding of the system of governance, the three-time NPP leader said he will continue begging Ghanaians because they reserve the right to choose who to lead them.

He said he will deliver on all his campaign promises made to Ghanaians if he is given the nod in Wednesday's general elections.

'Mahama is practicing Wayomenomics'

NPP Vice Presidential Candidate, Dr Mahamudu Bawumia charged Ghanaians to seize the moment the general elections offer them to alter the destiny of the country.

He said rather than implementing policies which will ease the conditions of life of Ghanaians, the governing National Democratic Congress (NDC) has been sharing state resources among its members.

He cited the failure of government to retrieve the GHC51.2 million judgment debt wrongfully paid to NDC financier, Alfred Agbesi Woyome.

"Under the eight years of the NDC...President Mahama has been practicing Wayomenomics and not economics," he observed.

The wife of New Patriotic Party Vice Presidential Candidate, Dr Mahamudu Bawumia has urged Ghanaians to consider the high cost of living in the country when casting their ballot.

Samira Bawumia wants Ghanaians to apply their mind to the corrupt deals the governing National Democratic Congress (NDC) has engaged in for the past eight years.

She cited the rot in the Ghana Youth Entrepreneurial and Employment Development Authority (GYEEDA), GHC51.2 million wrongfully paid to NDC financier, Alfred Woyome and throat-cutting cost of rebranding 116 Metro Mass buses.

Failed Mahama contender tells Ghanaians to 'kick out' NDC

A member of the National Democratic Congress (NDC) who had wanted to challenge President John Mahama in the party's 2015 presidential primary has declared support for the New Patriotic Party (NPP).

George Boateng says the NPP leader, Nana Addo Dankwa Akufo-Addo is the only presidential candidate contesting in next week Wednesday's elections who has a clean past.

'Akufo-Addo is not corrupt and he is not like President Mahama who has dissipated the funds of Ghana,' he told NPP supporters at the party's national campaign rally held at the Ghana International Trade Fair Center.

'Repeat what happened in The Gambia in Ghana' - Addo Kufuor

Former Defense Minister Addo Kufuor has urged Ghanaians to replicate what happened in The Gambia by voting out the governing National Democratic Congress (NDC).

He says the manner the 22 years reign of The Gambian President Yahya Jammeh was brought to an end by the citizens is worth repeating in Ghana.

'The young guys have you found any work doing?' he asked hundreds of New Patriotic Party (NPP) supporters at the party's national rally held at the forecourt of the Ghana International Trade Fair Center in Accra on Sunday.

'I'm from same town as Mahama, but will vote for Akufo-Addo' – Jinapor

An Aide to New Patriotic Party (NPP) Presidential Candidate, Nana Addo Dankwa Akufo-Addo says despite hailing from the same town as President John Mahama, he will vote against him.

Abu Jinapor says he would not be blinded into voting for the President who is the flagbearer of the governing National Democratic Congress (NDC) because he is a northerner.

He says Ghanaians have for the past eight years been wallowing in economic hardship because of what he described as bad policies of the NDC.

"I am a Northerner, a Gonja like President Mahama and a descendant of the Great Sumaila Ndewura Jakpa but will vote for Nana Akufo-Addo," he said.

Mr Jinapor made these remarks when he addressed several hundreds of NPP supporters at the party's national rally held at the forecourt of the Ghana National Trade Fair Center in Accra.
